C. — I think it is a good idea to replace paper schoolbooks with online e-books. Since e-books do not require tree-originated resources to produce, using them instead of paper books will protect forests. As the news from Japan and many parts of the world show, global warming is worsening at an alarming rate. By conserving forests, we can protect their ability to absorb carbon dioxide, which is vital in slowing climate change. Because of the large number of schoolchildren, changing their textbooks to e-books will have a great impact in reducing the consumption of trees. (94 words)
